Around 09.00 a minivan from the car rental company stopped in front of the hotels main building to pick me up. After some paperwork, I left with a small car. Immediately I went to Enlarge imagepick up my stuff at the apartment and started driving. I went from Costa Teguse to Tahiche, passed by the Jardín de Cactus to end at Jameos del Agua. Some kind of lake in a cave. It was neat to see though. There was also an exhibition on seismic activity over the past years around the island. After this visit I took a very narrow road to Mirador del Rio. A great panoramic view on the north coast of Enlarge imageLanzarote and the isle of La Graciosa. Beautiful blue seas in between the two islands. From there I drove via Haria and Teguse back to Puerto del Carmen. Since the Spanish way of driving is not the same as I'm used to in Holland, it was quite an exhausting day. So I decided to catch some sun again from 15.00 till 18.00. After a little aftersun and some reading, tonight I had dinner in a grill restaurant. After that I went again to Ruta 66, the bar I visited yesterday as well. I felt quite tired so I went back to the apartment around 23.00 and I'm gonna sleep late tomorrow!
